ABOUT THE SPEAKERS

DANA PERINO

FORMER WHITE HOUSE PRESS SECRETARY
POLITICAL COMMENTATOR, FOX NEWS

As only the second female press secretary in US history and one of the most widely respected members of President Bush's senior staff, Dana Perino is an expert in crafting and communicating key messages under stressful conditions.

With a close-up view of the president and his inner circle, she brings a unique perspective to the inner workings of presidential politics, the federal government, and the media.

After the 9/11 attacks, Perino served as a spokesperson for the Department of Justice. She later worked as director of communications at the White House Council on Environmental Quality (CEQ) where she provided strategic counsel on message development, media relations, and public outreach for CEQ and its chairman. Perino worked with the president's director of communications, his press secretary and his director of media affairs, handling all energy and environment-related media calls and serving as the spokesperson for the White House on environmental issues. In addition, she served as the coordinator for all agencies on environment, energy, and natural resource issues, reviewing and approving the agencies' announcements and keeping the other White House offices apprised of CEQ actions.

Before joining the Bush administration, Perino covered the state assembly of Illinois as a television journalist and worked in the private sector in San Diego, including at Porter Novelli. She attended graduate school at the University of Illinois-Springfield, where she obtained her masters in public affairs reporting. She then worked in Washington, DC, for Rep. Scott McInnis (R-CO) as a staff assistant before serving nearly four years as the press secretary for Rep. Dan Schaefer (R-CO), who then chaired the House Commerce Subcommittee on Energy and Power.

ABOUT THE SPEAKERS

MARK ZANDI

CHIEF ECONOMIST & CO-FOUNDER OF MOODY'S ECONOMY.COM

Mark Zandi is chief economist and cofounder of Moody's economy.com, where he directs the company's research and consulting activities. Moody's economy.com, a division of Moody's Analytics, provides economic research and consulting services to businesses, governments, and other institutions.

Zandi's research interests include macro, financial, and regional economics. His recent research has studied the determinants of mortgage foreclosure and personal bankruptcy, analyzed the economic impact of various tax and government spending policies and assessed the appropriate policy response to bubbles in asset markets. Zandi also conducts regular briefings on the economy. He is quoted often in national and global publications, is frequently interviewed by major news media outlets and is the author of Financial Shock, an exposé of the subprime financial crisis.

Zandi was an economic advisor to the John McCain campaign for president, has provided advice to the Obama Administration and regularly testifies in Congress. His most recent testimony has been on the economic impact of fiscal stimulus and the merits of providing government aid to the vehicle industry.

Zandi received his Ph.D. at the University of Pennsylvania, where he did his research with Gerard Adams and Nobel laureate Lawrence Klein, and received his BS from the Wharton School at the University of Pennsylvania.

ABOUT THE SPEAKERS

SENATOR DAVID VITTER

(R-LA)

David Vitter is focused on putting Louisiana first as an independent and outspoken reformer, and on advancing mainstream conservative principles.

In the Senate, David serves on the Committees on Armed Services; Banking, Housing and Urban Development; Commerce, Science and Transportation; Environment and Public Works; and Small Business and Entrepreneurship. Working on these committees allows David to focus on jobs, infrastructure, and economic development for every region of the state. He's been particularly focused on lowering prescription drug prices, saving our coast, and preserving and improving Social Security for future generations.

Prior to his service in the U.S. Senate, David represented the First Congressional District of Louisiana from 1999 - 2004. During that tenure, he authored and passed legislation establishing a prescription drug program for military retirees, advancing missile defense, and cleaning up Lake Pontchartrain.

For his work in Congress, David has received numerous awards from leading organizations such as Americans for Tax Reform, the 60+ Association, and the Family Research Council.

David and his wife Wendy live in Metairie with their four children and are lecturers at St. Francis Xavier Church.

ABOUT THE SPEAKERS

TOMMY BEAUDREAU

DIRECTOR, BUREAU OF OCEAN ENERGY MANAGEMENT (BOEM)

Tommy P. Beaudreau is the first director of the Bureau of Ocean Energy Management (BOEM), which is responsible for overseeing the environmentally and economically responsible development of the Nation's offshore resources. BOEM manages the conventional and renewable ocean energy and mineral resources on 1.7 billion acres of the OCS.

Mr. Beaudreau joined the Department of the Interior in June 2010 to help develop and lead the Department's aggressive reforms of offshore energy management and oversight following the Deepwater Horizon blowout and oil spill, including the reorganization of the former Minerals Management Service. He served as the senior advisor to the director of the Bureau of Ocean Energy Management, Regulation and Enforcement, where he played an integral role in designing and implementing the Bureau's broad reform agenda with respect to the regulation of offshore oil and gas development.

BOEM was established in October 2011. The agency's responsibilities include leasing, plan administration, environmental studies, National Environmental Policy Act (NEPA) analysis, resource evaluation, economic analysis and the offshore renewable energy program.

Prior to his work at Interior, Mr. Beaudreau was a partner at the law firm Fried, Frank, Harris, Shriver & Jacobson LLP, where his practice focused on, among other things, internal investigations, including reviews of government agencies pursuing reform. Mr. Beaudreau is a graduate of Yale University and received his law degree from the Georgetown University Law Center.

ABOUT THE SPEAKERS

SANDRA MOURTON EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR OFFSHORE ENERGY CENTER

Sandra Mourton has been involved in the oil and gas industry since 1975. Born and educated in England, she began her oilfield career in the London office of a U.S. based manufacturer of drilling and production equipment. Her business travel took her to Scotland, Norway, Holland, France, Singapore and the USA.

In 1980, she followed her dream and moved to Houston. She remained in Executive Sales, marketing major offshore drilling and production equipment to drilling contractors and oil and gas companies until mid 2000.

In 2000, Sandra joined the Offshore Energy Center (OEC) as their Executive Director. The Offshore Energy Center sponsors the Ocean Star Offshore Drilling Rig Museum and Education Center in Galveston, a Pioneers Hall of Fame and a very successful Education Outreach Program – that has vastly been expanded over the years.

Before joining the staff of OEC, Sandra had been involved with the organization for a number of years. She chaired the membership guild – the OEC SOCIETY, serving on the OEC Board of Directors since 1997. She also chaired fundraising events for two Houston Oil and Gas organizations, to raise funds for their pledged commitments to the OEC.

Throughout her career, she has served on various organization boards and committees. She was President of Society of Professional Women in Petroleum in 1985 - 1986, President of the Federation of Houston Professional Women (FHPW) in 1993. She is a founding member of the Federation of Houston Professional Women Educational Foundation, and served as President in 1994. She was recognized as a Woman of Excellence by FHPW in 1989.

ABOUT THE SPEAKERS

THOMAS CAMPBELL

PARTNER

PILLSBURY WINTHROP SHAW PITTMAN LLP

Mr. Campbell is a partner at Pillsbury Winthrop Shaw Pittman LLP in Houston and the leader of the firm's Crisis Management Team. Mr. Campbell counsels U.S. and multinational corporations facing catastrophic financial and reputational loss associated with a crisis. Typically, these matters require a multidisciplinary response involving public relations, government relations and litigation.

Mr. Campbell's significant representation includes serving as the multidisciplinary crisis management team leader that advised a 10% leaseholder of the Macondo well on a billion dollar settlement related to the 2010 Deepwater Horizon accident and oil spill in the Gulf of Mexico. Mr. Campbell also served as a client team leader for Teck Metals in a "historic" cross-border contamination case involving claims of discharges in Canada affecting the Columbia River in the U.S.

Mr. Campbell joined the firm in May 2005 following his work as a partner with Campbell, George & Strong, LLP. Under Mr. Campbell's guidance, Campbell, George & Strong pioneered the use of the two concepts, habitat equivalency analysis (HEA) and net environmental benefits analysis (NEBA), developed during his tenure at NOAA. Through his efforts, these concepts have been incorporated into various regulatory regimes.

Mr. Campbell has experience testifying before Congressional committees and participating in White House and cabinet-level briefings. Mr. Campbell's articles have appeared in several law, economic and technical publications. Mr. Campbell earned his J.D. at Baylor University School of Law, and his B.S. at Brigham Young University.

ENTERTAINMENT

POLITICAL IMPRESSIONIST

The New Yorker magazine hailed Jim Morris as “the country’s leading political impressionist”. Recreating Washington, DC and the Beltway, Jim caricatures our nation’s leaders utilizing his uncanny ability to vocally and physically impersonate the news makers with flair, wit and intelligence, creating a hilarious living political cartoon.

Jim Morris’ show has been described as a monologue with a cast of thousands, the political life of our country as an ongoing sitcom and a sort of White House Confidential with laughs, as Jim takes us behind closed doors into the secret comic halls of power. President Barack Obama is the star of the show and the extraordinary cast includes Mitt Romney, Rick Perry, Herman Cain, George W. Bush, Bill Clinton, Dick Cheney, plus Ron Paul, John McCain, Newt Gingrich, Rudolph Giuliani, and if the political spirits are just right maybe an appearance by the Ghost of Ronald Reagan.

Jim has always been interested in politics, making people laugh and impersonating and puncturing authority figures. He discovered his art while attending high school in Framingham, Mass., where one day pretending to be the principal he issued an “unauthorized” early dismissal over the school public address system. Of course on that day the other students were dismissed much earlier than Jim.

Jim is seen regularly on Network and Cable Television offering his own versions of politician’s sound bites and spin, starring in comedy specials for HBO, ABC, CBS and Cinemax, appearing on The Tonight Show, Countdown with Keith Olbermann, Larry King Live and Comic Relief.
